Malmö Art Academy

The Bachelor's programme in Fine Arts is a three-year undergraduate programme at Malmö Art Academy, Faculty of Fine and Performing Arts, Lund University. The aim of the programme is to enable students to become independent artists on a contemporary international art scene.

In June 2018 Malmö Art Academy will move into the former tram sheds at Norra Sorgenfri, an area that is under dramatic development right now and to the centrally situated Triangeln area – to the Mazetti house and to Dimman (opposite to Mazetti). Two galleries, Gallery KHM1 and Gallery KHM2 will also be housed in the Mazetti and they will open already in March 2018. This means that an important part of our premises will be close and integrated with Inter Arts Center which opens up new exciting possibilities for collaborative exchanges.

The new premises will contain well-equipped workshops for wood, metal, plaster, plastic, clay, concrete, lens based media; film, video digital and analog photography, digital image processing, 3D printing and animation. The premises will also offer large project studios, a library and lecture rooms as well as private studios for the 70 students on the Fine Arts programmes and a large study room for students in the Master's programme in Critical and Pedagogical Studies. Students will have access to their studios and most of the workshops 24 hours a day throughout the year.

In the future, Lund University is planning for a more long-term campus solution for all three academies in the fine and performing arts in Malmö.

The Bachelor's programme begins with a foundation course dealing primarily with different artistic techniques and basic art theory. Malmö Art Academy has no separate departments. Students organise their own curriculum, choosing from a wide range of technical and theoretical courses, and are individually supervised. In this manner, students are encouraged to develop the ability to take responsibility for understanding their own artistic process and its relation to the theory and practice of contemporary art. The courses are taught by nationally and internationally active artists and art theorists. Students are awarded credits for completed courses and individual supervised artistic work. The degree project consists of participation in a group exhibition and a written essay dealing with the students' artistic points of departure and fields of interests, and the artistic context in which they would like to place themselves. About half of the 180 credits included in the degree are intended to be awarded for individual supervised artistic work and the other half for completed courses. On completion of the programme, students obtain a degree of Bachelor of Fine Arts of Visual Arts, 180 ECTS credits.

The academy is international in orientation and each year visited by internationally active artists. The international profile is an important feature of the academy. It is facilitated by the close proximity to Denmark and mainland Europe, as well as by student exchanges with art academies in other countries. Malmö Art Academy also benefits from the rich and internationally orientated art life in the region, which has many art galleries, museums and other institutions. Guest lectures from visiting artists and critics as well as various forms of collaborative projects are continuously offered at the academy.

A contemporary programme in Fine Arts can interact with cultural, artistic and scientific currents in the fields of art history and theory, architecture, philosophy, sociology, psychology and many other subjects. The affiliation with Lund University is therefore a great advantage to Malmö Art Academy.

Malmö Art Academy also offers a Master's programme in Fine Arts and a Master's programme in Critical and Pedagogical Studies. Admission to the Master's programme in Critical and Pedagogical Studies takes place every other year and the next round of admissions is spring 2019 for a start on the programme in the autumn semester of 2019. Admission to the Master's programmes takes place later in the spring than for the Bachelor's programme – please see www.universityadmissions.se and the application form at www.khm.lu.se for more information. The academy also offers a four-year doctoral programme in Fine Arts. Admission takes place in conjunction with the announcement of vacant doctoral studentships on the Lund University website <http://www.lu.se/om-universitetet/jobba-hos-oss>.

Admission

Each academic year a maximum of 12 students are admitted to the three-year Bachelor's programme in Fine Arts. All applications are reviewed confidentially by an admissions committee composed of supervising professors of Fine Arts, senior lecturers, lecturers and student representatives. Shortlisted applicants are called to interviews in the spring, usually in April. Following the interviews, applicants are informed by mail whether they have been admitted to the programme or not, or have been placed on a waiting list. The selection is based on an assessment of samples of artistic work, personal statements and interviews. The reasons behind the decision of the committee are not communicated and the decision cannot be appealed.

Admission requirements

To be admitted to Malmö Art Academy, students must fulfill the general entry requirements for higher education studies in Sweden. For those who do not fulfill the general entry requirements, exemption can be granted in exceptional circumstances. If you do not meet the general requirements, you need to state the reasons for exemption that you wish to refer to. The general entry requirements can be fulfilled in several ways: upper secondary school qualifications, professional experience, or education in a country other than Sweden. For more information about general entry requirements see: <http://www.lunduniversity.lu.se/international-admissions/bachelors-masters-studies/admission-requirements>
